

Office of Development Internship Application

The University of Mississippi Development Office offers internships for summer, fall and spring semesters for students enrolled at the University of Mississippi. As a development intern, you will gain valuable experience in donor cultivation, development communications, gift solicitation, and stewardship. The internship is a competitive program which requires you to submit a cover letter, resume, and a 500-word essay summarizing your undergraduate experience and why you are interested in a career in fundraising. After initial screening, a few candidates will be invited for an interview. For more information, visit <https://umfoundation.com/home/internships.php>
